

Computer Automation Systems, Inc. awarded contract for Early Intervention and Education Data System by Wyoming Department of Health

SEAS™ Software Solution to be implemented statewide to answer early intervention data management needs

Mountain Home, AR – June 10, 2010 – Computer Automation Systems (CAS) is the nation’s leading special education plan management software company. Today, the company announced that it had been awarded the contract for the statewide “Early Intervention and Education Data System” from the Wyoming Department of Health.

The Wyoming Department of Health’s (WDH) Developmental Disabilities Division (DDD) provides services to children under both Part B and Part C of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) in 14 regions located throughout the State. The DDD staff members who manage the Early Intervention and Education Program are responsible for overseeing and supervising service quality provided by the regional sites, ensuring compliance with State and Federal standards, and providing for accurate statistical reporting.

CAS will deploy its web-based SEAS™ software system to all forty-two individual sites located throughout the State. Service providers and DDD staff will use the system to access, build, and manage mandated and required documentation. This will include both IEP and IFSP plans using Wyoming State forms and data elements. In addition to providing the software system and secured hosting services, CAS will also provide complete on-site implementation and training services to system users throughout the State.

‘We feel very honored to have received this contract,’ noted Harvey Hughes, President of CAS. “Our company has a very successful history of partnership with Wyoming school districts. We are dedicated to the success of this statewide implementation for the Wyoming Department of Health in achieving long-term, positive results for the children that the State serves.”
